More Assignments Go To Thurmond, Hollings

Greenville News Bureau
132 Third St., S.E.

WASHINGTON — Both South Carolina Sens. Strom Thurmond and E. F. Hollings were given additional subcommittee assignments Thursday.

Thurmond was chosen by armed services chairman Richard Russell to serve on the Central Intelligence Agency subcommittee, which oversees the nation's top spy agency.

The Aiken Republican was picked by Vice President Hubert Humphrey to serve on a capital study commission to recommend plans for improving visitor facilities in Washington.

Hollings was tabbed for the Civil Service and Health and Life Insurance subcommittees of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Hollings described himself as "pleased" over both because they would enable him to serve South Carolina's 28,000 civil service workers and postal employees.

On the CIA subcommittee, Thurmond will be serving with Sens. John Stennis, D-Miss.; Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine.

The subcommittee examines classified expenditures of the agency and has access to information secured through intelligence channels concerning potential U. S. enemies.
